I hope everyone is having a happy and healthy holiday season. I want to take this opportunity to tell you about some of the goings on regarding the common areas in the neighborhood.

First, I am very pleased to announce that the Association has hired a new gardener, Baltazar Gutierrez. After interviewing several gardeners, Mr. Gutierrez, who came very highly recommended, was selected. He is responsible for comprehensive landscape maintenance, including lawns, plants, and irrigation upkeep. The Association has received several comments from residents saying what a great job Mr. Gutierrez is doing and how much better our common areas are looking. We are very fortunate to have him.

Hiring our new gardener is part of the Association’s larger effort to improve the looks of the common areas. The planted areas on either end of Miramar have been weeded, the irrigation has been repaired, and new plants will be added as needed. Missing or dying photinia plants on the upper Plymouth and Faxon greens will be replaced, and the hedges will be pruned more appropriately to give them a better look. Broken and missing sprinkler heads have been replaced on the greens. All of the sprinklers on the Miramar median strips are now working, with the exception of the one just below the Circle, which requires more extensive repairs. The Association will improve each of the Miramar median strips over the next few years as funds allow. This will include refurbishing the 85-year-old irrigation systems, removing old grass and adding new sod and gopher protection. Other ideas being considered include replacing missing trees on Miramar and replacing the grass and gopher-proofing on the upper Plymouth green. Please let us know if you have any suggestions.

We also have several wonderful residents who are helping to keep our neighborhood beautiful. Dan Joraanstad has started organizing the Westwood Park Garden Volunteers. This terrific group of residents has volunteered to help oversee the watering, maintenance, and other improvements of the common areas. We have at least one person who is responsible for each of the 17 greens, some of whom have been watering their green for 10, 16, and even 18 years! And on the graffiti front, David Greenbaum has generously volunteered to oversee graffiti removal in the neighborhood. (Contact the Association to join his team or report any graffiti.)

Our hats go off to all the residents who give their time and energy to help make our neighborhood such a great place to live. If any of you also wish to join in, please contact the Association.

Happy New Year,
Greg Clinton

Dues Increase

by Greg Clinton

The Association wants to notify residents that we will likely need to increase our annual homeowner’s dues next fiscal year, which will start March 1, 2006.

When the Westwood Park Association was established in 1917, dues were somewhere around $12 per year. Our current dues of $59.40 have clearly not kept pace with inflation during the past 88 years! This is because the Association has always been aware that we have residents who are on fixed incomes, so we have worked very hard to keep dues as low as possible. However, our costs have been rising dramatically: Liability insurance has more than doubled, cost of postage and materials continues to go up, and maintenance of the 17 common areas is becoming increasingly more expensive.

All administrative and advocacy work by the Association is done by unpaid volunteers (the Association stopped having a paid secretary in 1993). Our neighborhood is also extremely fortunate to have wonderful residents who pitch in and volunteer to do things like help water the greens, maintain and repair the irrigation systems, paint over graffiti, and so forth. We also have a resident architect who donates his time to review remodeling proposals to ensure that construction adheres to our neighborhood design guidelines. We have another resident who volunteered her time to manage the Miramar gates restoration. If not for the generous help of all these residents, our costs would be much, much higher.

Man’s Best Friend in Westwood Park

At the annual meeting in September, some residents expressed concern about dog feces being left on the common areas and on private property. Residents have experienced the unpleasant task of cleaning dog feces off shoes, lawns and sidewalks. Some residents relax and play on the larger greens (upper Faxon and Plymouth Islands). They are concerned that dogs’ waste can cause an unhealthy environment.

It was also noted that people from outside of the neighborhood walk or drive to our large common areas to walk dogs or let them run free.

Here are San Francisco’s laws governing safe and healthy dog ownership, which we hope will help remind as many people as possible of their responsibilities as pet owners:

Leash Law: It is illegal to allow your dog to roam off your premises without a leash, except in areas designated as an animal exercise area under the jurisdiction of the City’s Department of Recreation and Parks [San Francisco Health Code Sec. 41(a) and 41.12(a)].

There are several off leash dog running locations in San Francisco, which can be found on line at www.sfgov.org (click on Department of Parks and Recreation), or by telephoning 415-831-2700.

Cleaning Up After your Dog: It is illegal to allow your dog to defecate on any public or private property (other than your own) without immediately removing and disposing of the dog’s feces [San Francisco Health Code Section 40(a)]. Further, it is illegal to walk your dog anywhere off your property without carrying a suitable container/instrument for removing and disposing of the dog’s feces [San Francisco Health Code Sec. 40(b)].

Thank you for your help in maintaining the beautiful neighborhood that Westwood Park residents are so lucky to enjoy.

It’s been said that the soul of the craftsman finds its way into the craft.

In Westwood Park, it may be the soul of the contractor that found its way in, for the man behind about 350 of the Park’s 650 homes was Hans Nelson—a generous, fun-loving Swede who relished a practical joke, knew how to party, and had a knack for building houses people couldn’t wait to live in.

He arrived in this country nearly 100 years ago and set out to join his brother, Martin, a carpenter in San Francisco, said Hans Nelson’s grandson, Nelson Foss, a museum curator in New Mexico.

In San Francisco, “my grandfather decided that pounding nails wasn’t what he was cut out for,” said Mr. Foss. So the brothers built a house, sold it, and made some money. “He said, ‘We can keep the money, or use it to build two houses.’”

As homes built by Mr. Nelson multiplied across the city, so did the contents of his wallet—as well as his sense of humor, which often emerged in the company of fellow masons at the Scottish Lodge. One day, those friends were astonished at the clumsiness of a new waiter at the lodge who kept dropping food in their laps and serving soup with a thumb crooked into the steaming liquid.

Only one lodge member kept smiling as the others grew irritated. That was Mr. Nelson, who’d hired an actor to play the butter-fingered server.

Not all of Mr. Nelson’s practical jokes were as amusing. There was, for instance, the time the curtains caught fire in his family’s Laguna Street apartment after one of the exploding cigars he’d given his buddies blew up.

“My grandmother put her foot down after that,” chuckled Foss.

More often, though, Esther Nelson was a willing partner in the fun because her husband could never quite finish telling a joke himself. “He’d just start laughing so hard, tears would pour out, and he couldn’t finish,” said Mr. Foss. “My grandmother would have to supply the tag line.”

Mr. Nelson had much to be carefree about. His homes were selling well and, whether shrewd or just plain lucky, he had withdrawn all of his money just weeks before the Crash of ’29.

But fortune faded when Mr. Nelson was only in his 40s. He suffered several strokes and was never quite the same after that, said Mr. Foss, who was 14 when his grandfather died in the late 1950s.

Yet, his legacy endures in his homes and in the memory of his generosity. As Mr. Foss tells it, Mr. Nelson lent money to everyone who asked. “I’ve never heard of anyone who didn’t like him,” he said.
Getting Prepared, One Step at a Time
by Greg Morris

We all have seen unforgettable images of the disasters natural and otherwise that have struck in the last year alone—the tsunami in Asia, Katrina and other devastating hurricanes in the U.S., the earthquake in Pakistan. While it’s not possible to anticipate everything that can happen during a disaster, there are concrete steps we all can take to be more prepared. Acting now will add to your safety and comfort during a disaster and add to your peace of mind beforehand.

Assembling disaster supplies for your household is an absolutely critical task. It can save lives. It’s also a big task if you try to do it all at once. So it’s easier to stock up on supplies over time.

The San Francisco Fire Department’s Neighborhood Emergency Response Team (NERT) Training Program has published a recommended list of disaster supplies (see chart, right). You’ll probably find that you already have some of the supplies, but maybe they are scattered around your home. You’ll ideally want a complete set of supplies in one place. Additional items can be added as soon as possible. Even the smallest steps you take to be prepared can have a big impact when disaster strikes.

Additional tips:
♦ Store enough supplies for at least 72 hours.
♦ Check and rotate water, food, batteries and clothes at least once a year.
♦ Keep your gas tank full.

Keep this newsletter as your supplies checklist. For a more detailed list, and for info about NERT and what you can do to be prepared, visit the NERT website at www.sfgov.org/site/sfnert_index.asp. Learn about the Westwood Park NERT team and get involved by writing to nert@westwoodpark.com.

Ocean Avenue Revitalization Collaborative
by Shannon Frank Edelstone

Join Us in Making Ocean Avenue a Vibrant Place to Shop! The Ocean Avenue Revitalization Collaborative (OARC) is a group of merchants, residents and representatives of local non-profits committed to making the Ocean Avenue commercial corridor a more vibrant and inviting place to shop, eat, and spend time.

In late October 2004, the OARC met for the first time, with organizational assistance from LISC, a national non-profit group working in San Francisco with the Mayor’s Office of Economic and Workforce Development. LISC provides training, technical and some financial assistance to groups working on community development. Together, LISC and the Ocean Avenue Revitalization Collaborative hope to make Ocean Avenue a fun and safe place for all.

OARC participants have met monthly and have already published the first edition of a colorful new magazine called The Ocean Wave, helped sponsor the first of many (we hope) historic walking tours, decorated Ocean Avenue for the holidays, and more. We welcome your ideas and participation! Volunteers are also greatly needed to work with the Ocean Avenue Revitalization Collaborative in these ways:

♦ Help decorate Ocean Avenue for the holidays—this would consist of placing garlands on street poles on Ocean Avenue between Victoria and Lee, and fundraising for additional decorations. Email shanfran1@yahoo.com.
♦ Reach out to merchants and property owners to help improve building facades. Send an email to shanfran1@yahoo.com.
♦ Submit an article for publication in the Ocean Wave, the new publication put out by the Merchants on Ocean. Email Jacques Campos at store5037@theupsstore.com.
♦ Help develop a historic walking tour of Ocean Avenue. Email Dan Weaver or Woody LaBounty at djpw3eaver@yahoo.com.
